1. Introduction

The present article is a continuation of Part I (Linnavauri & Modarres 1998: 237–241). It is based on material collected by the senior author from April to July 1994 and May 1996 in Khorasan. The expeditions were made in cooperation with the College of Agriculture of the Ferdowsi University in Mashhad and the Plant Pests and Diseases Research Institute in Evin, Tehran.

3. Taxonomical notes

Orthotylus (Parapachylops) putshkovi Josifov, 1974

Orthotylus putshkovi Josifov 1974: 91–92
Figs. 1 C-D, 2 A-I, 3 A-E.

Type material examined. Kirgisia: Ferganski chrebet, Kysyl-Unkür, 4 paratypes (♂ ♀), 4.IX.1972, Josifov, in coll. Linnavauri.

Discussion. There are slight differences in the male genitalia between the Iranian population and the type series: The dorsal angle of the sensory lobe of the left style is sharply triangular (rounded in the type series) and the subapical process of the median band of the vesica is somewhat dissimilar. But in lack of material between Middle Asia and Iran both populations are regarded as conspecific.

Orthotylus (Melanotrichus) eleagni Jakovlev, 1881, and O. (Melanotrichus) problematicus Linnavauri, 1953

Orthotylus eleagni Jakovlev, 1881: 200.

Orthotylus problematicus Linnavauri 1953: 107.

2. Material and methods

Collecting trips were made to the areas mentioned in Part I. The material consisted of 159 species; 84 of them new for Iran. Nine new species were already described in Linnavauri 1995, 1997a, 1997b, and 1998. A list of the findings is published below. For nomenclature and distributional data, the Catalogue of the Heteroptera of the Palaearctic Region III (Kerzhner & Josifov 1999) was consulted.

The collected material is preserved in the Linnavauri collection, the College of Agriculture of the Ferdowsi University, Mashhad, and the Plant Pests and Diseases Research Institute in Evin, Tehran. The material was collected by Rauno Linnavauri, when no other collector is mentioned.

Fig. 4 A-K.

Type material examined. Turkmenistan: Fl. Tschu, ♂ holotype of O. problematicus, J. Sahlberg, in coll. Linnauori.

Discussion. Both species are closely related, but can be distinguished by the following characters:

In O. eleagni the hair covering on the upper surface is shorter and pale, the antennae are more slender with the 1st segment considerably shorter, 0.42-0.43 (♂) or 0.38 (♀) x as long as diatone, and the apical process of the right style being simple. In O. problematicus the hair covering on the upper surface is long and dark brown, the antennae are more incrassate with the 1st segment (♂)

0.60 x as long as diatone and the apical process of the right style is coarsely dentate.

Orthotylus (Melanotrichus) rudbaricus Linnauori, 1997, = O. (Melanotrichus) turcmenorum Puchkov, 1976, syn.n.

Orthotylus (Melanotrichus) turcmenorum Puchkov 1976: 756.

Orthotylus (Melanotrichus) rudbaricus Linnauori 1997 a: 307-309.

Type material of O. rudbaricus. Iran: Gilan, Tutkabon-Rudbar, male holotype, 4 ♀ paratypes, 29.V-28.VI.1995; Manjil, ♂ paratype, 16.V-14.VI.1995, Linnauori, in coll. Linnauori.

Discussion. O. rudbaricus was described from an isolated area in Gilan on the basis of a robust body, larger eyes in the male, somewhat shorter antennae, and broader right style. Examination of a large amount of material collected in 1996 from Parvand revealed numerous intermediates between O. rudbaricus and Middle Asia specimens of O. turmenorum. Consequently both taxa are regarded as conspecific.

Halodapus (Plagiorhamma) concolor Reuter, 1890, and H. (Plagiorhamma) pseudoconcolor Linnnavuori, 1984

Plagiorhamma concolor Reuter 1890: 246.

Plagiorhamma pseudoconcolor Linnnavuori 1984: 40.

Fig. 5 A-D.

Type material: H. concolor: Turkmenistan: Bekljar—bek, 1♂ and 1♀, J. Sahlberg, in the Zoological Museum of Helsinki University.

H. pseudoconcolor: Iraq: Dahuk, Sarsang, male holotype, several paratypes, 26–28.VIII. 1980; Ninawa, Al Qosh, several paratypes, 25.VIII.1980; Baghdad, several paratypes, IV-VI. 1980, Linnnavuori. Holotype and paratypes in the

Fig. 5. Halodapus pseudoconcolor Linnnavuori: A-C. left style in different views. — H. concolor (Reuter); D. left style. — Camptotylus gracilis Wagner; E. 2nd antennal segment; F. right style; G. theca. — After Linnnavuori 1975 and 1984 and Wagner 1957.

Discussion. Both species are easily distinguished by the shape of the hypophysis of the left style, which in H. concolor is short and obliquely T-shaped, but in H. pseudoconcolor long and needle-like. Puchkov & Puchkov (1983: 17-18) incorrectly recorded the latter species as H. concolor from Turkmenistan.
