Abstract

Syria is country on the world map from where, after civil war started, most people run away, searching retreat in Europe. Seeming anonymous crowd of refugees, in fact, are personalities with their own life stories, upsets and hopes, which have all of us. When You become a refugee, You have lost Your identity. Your future is decided by system instead of You. UK refugee's politic describes the hypocrisy and political correctness. Media and politics are talking about refugee's only as a problem. Society is divide in migrants supporters and admission opponents. We can't say – it doesn't apply to us, we all are related. How and can we live together in this multicultural world?
